Company Overview: Established in 2005, FlexPrint is a full-service document management firm that helps companies streamline and manage document workflow and output. The company combines traditional cost-per-print solutions with a unique analysis approach to pinpoint areas for improvement in the document workflow process. FlexPrint works directly with senior management of mid-size businesses as well as large corporations to create a customized document technology infrastructure that increases productivity and reduces printing costs.

Services:

Analysis

- FlexPrint's professional consultants provide an in-depth assessment of an organization's current document output infrastructure in order to identify printing inefficiencies and develop new strategies to increase productivity, eliminate redundancies and reduce and fix costs.
- The company provides an in-depth assessment of current printing equipment and the physical location of devices to identify where processes should be consolidated.
- FlexPrint evaluates current usage patterns, calculating the exact current cost-per-print to identify hidden and unnecessary costs associated with printing.
- Looking at current printing patterns, the company creates an overall print management plan aligned with corporate strategies and budgets to deliver an integrated, holistic solution.

Print Management

- Based on individual business needs, FlexPrint will implement and provide ongoing management and solutions. This proactive approach to internal document output reduces asset downtime, maximizes productivity and lowers their clients cost to produce a document.
- FlexPrint's team of knowledgeable, experienced and fully certified Hewlett-Packard (HP), Ricoh Lanier, Xerox, Kyocera and Lexmark engineers solve networking, technical or equipment issues, and the company's centralized customer support center immediately addresses and solves any problems.
